Contents

About the authors vii

Introduction 1

1. Managing people 15
Who is the approach for? 15
Key features 16
A purpose-built approach 21

2. Getting started 25
Establishing clear expectations 26
The development process – code of conduct 32
The development process – performance standards 35

3. Preparing to coach people 41
Setting the scene for workplace coaching 41
Job design/work organization 44
Performance-based selection 45
Induction 46
What is a workplace coach? 46

4. Operating as a coach on the job 53
Providing informal feedback on the job 55
Key features 56
The quality and integrity of evidence 57

5. Operating as a coach during a formal review 61
Providing formal feedback off the job 63
A: Designing a structure for a formal review (feedback) 65
Preparing for a formal review 70
B: Conducting a formal review 72

6. Developing coaches for managing people 83
A: Learning design 85
B: Training design 96
Summary 106

7. The road to goodbye: when dismissal is the only solution 109
Background 109
Conduct and capacity to perform 110

8. A risk management approach to people management 123
Analysis of approaches to people management 124
Identifying the risks 124
Developing treatments for identified risks (an insurance policy and a driver for continuous improvement) 127
The costs 129

9. Preparing your workplace 135
Barriers to improving people management 136
Getting started 137
A reminder of the nine principles 139
The last word 142

Appendix 1: Terminology 143
Appendix 2: Case study in the production sector 145
Appendix 3: Case study in the service sector 151
Appendix 4: Managing and rewarding the performance of senior managers 157

Index 171